30TH ATHLETICS AND PHILLIES HAVE GREAT CHANCE TO ADVANCE

tack and Wilhelm Should Be Able to Elevate Clubs Out of Last Place This Season—Public Will Suffer So Long and No Longer

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger THETHER it means anything or not, the bronzed, sun-burned athletes toiling for the owners of the Phillies and Athletics are among us today. ar clubs. Such a game determines definitely and completely the strength If the other end of the major leagues, the Giants and Yanks having settled heir little argument in the World Series last fall.

The Glants proved they were the best and in the early betting Connie Mack is the favorite to prove his club the worst. Connie has been submerged for seven years, while the Phils finished in eighth place only three seasons. That makes the Athletics four up and no place to go.

Anybody can become a loser, but it's tough to kick in with the winning stuff. Therefore, neither the Phils nor the Athletics can be considered stuck up or exclusive. They are loyal to their friends, if any.

The only difference between this season and the others is this is 1922. The same stories of getting out of the cellar and giving the fans a better brand of baseball have been distributed, but those yarns are not making as much of an impression as of yore. The fans consider it old stuff and are prepared to suffer one more year.

Just the same, we all hope that this is the year to get out from under. The A's and the Phils have been winning too many pennants for other clubs and have been acting the part of doormats long enough. Local pride has been shot to pieces, and every time Philadelphia is mentioned in baseball circles everybody has a hearty laugh. This city is the joke town in the major leagues. W. F. BAKER and enough is enough. The public will suffer just so long. and after that it will seek recreation elsewhere. They have troubles enough of their own and do not care to worry about bum

Last year the Phils won fifty-one games and dropped 103. The Athletics performed a trifle better, winning fifty three and losing an even hundred battles. However, the standing of the clubs was the same : Neither club won series, but each tied one; the A's split with Washington on the season's games and the Phils were fifty-fifty with the Cubs.

THIS is not a record to be proud of and if there is any change it will have to be for the best. Conditions couldn't be worse.

A's Have Unusual Opportunity to Climb

BOTH the Phils and the Athletics look better than last year and are not the weakest clubs in their lengues. They should get out of the cellar because the line-ups appear to be much stronger than a couple of other clubs, and if the men play according to form the list of defeats will not be so large. The Athletics have an unusual opportunity to climb. To my mind, there are only four real pennant contenders and it is a toss-up among the others.

It would not be at all surprising if the A s climbed into 6fth place, because the White Sox have not improved and Boston is not strong in any department. Detroit, with Cobb on the sidelines, a new shortstop who has yet to show his worth and a vacancy at second base which will be temporarily filled by George Cutshaw, will be handicapped at the start of the season.

Connie has a good, hard-hitting outfield, the best catcher in the league and a pitching staff that would win consistently on a pennant-contending club. The only weakness now is in the infield, and this soon will b straightened out. Manager Mack has been unable to find s shortstop. Calloway did not show up as well as was expected and Chick Galloway will be asked to fill that position. This will shift Dykes to third and Scheer to Scheer is a wonderful fielder, but not much of a hitter. However, he is young and may develop.

Rommel, Hasty, Harris, Moore and Naylor are ex. everything, including experience, and if they don't come through this year they never will.

One big disadvantage was the training trip. Engle Pass was not the best place to get a team in condition because of the high winds and the sand ms. The infielders were forced to wear goggles and did not do much work. The weather was so unfavorable that the men lost interest and just went through the motions without showing any spirit.

When they left Eagle Pass on the trip North it was proved conclusively yet ready for a hard season. Five games were played with the St. Louis Cards and the National Leaguers won all of them. In the five games the Cards made seventy-nine hits, an average of sixteen per game, and forty-nine runs, which averaged about ten per battle. Their batting average against the A's pitching was .403, and this does not sound

SOMETIMES it is best for a ball club to get off to a poor start in the exhibition games, and here's hoping that this is one of the

Phils Look Like Different Ball Club

TN THE National League five clubs have the call. The Phils, Cincinnati and the Cubs should trail in the rear, according to present indications. There is no use in being optimistic or trying to kid ourselves. Our local teams are labeled for the second division, but not at the tail end of it. The Phils hade an excellent chance to beat out the Cubs and the Reds, and if this is done everybody will be per-

The Phils look like a different ball club this year. The players are working harder and showing more spirit han any aggregation I saw in the South. Manager Wilselm has everything under control and the men are with him. That's a big asset in any lengue.

The pitchers will be in shape, and that will help a lot in the early games. Meadows, Ring and Hubbell are good as any three right-handers in the league, and Behan, Smith and Betts are excellent reserves. Pinto seems to be the lest of the southpaws, and in addition there are Weinert, Bannagurtner, Sullivan, Snover, Winters, Singleton and Sedgwick. It is the best pitching staff the Phils have had in years,

Art Fletcher virtually has made the team what it is. His hustling spirit has inspired the others and the infield now works as smoothly as any I have seen, and this includes the million-dollar gang on the Giants. The outfield, with Williams, Walker, King, Lebourveau and Wrightstone, bit well and can cover lets of ground, and Henline and Peters will perform creditably behind the plate. Taking it all in all, our National League entry will give a good account of itself this year. There will be some difficulty at the start, because the Braves, Glants and Brooklyn are to be played, but opposition will not be so keen when the Western chills are played. The Athletics open with the Red Sex and this gives them a good break.

Prazee's young men are not up to the usual standard and Connie should get of to a flying start.

BUT the adage still holds good: You never can tell in baseball.
